

WELCOME!

I'm so glad you're here!

Hi there! My name is Aly, but my favorite people call me Mrs. Franklin! I am a middle school resource room teacher in Michigan. I spend my time teaching special education math intervention classes, cotaught math intervention classes, and coteaching 6th, 7th, and 8th grade math classes!

My goal with creating Middle School in the Mitten was to share engaging and time saving resources and ideas with busy, world changing teachers like you! All of the activities that are found in my Teachers Pay Teachers store were created for and used with my own students. In fact, I began my TPT journey in 2017, when I shared my first few sets of digital task cards that I was creating for my caseload students!

Thank you for your download and support! I love using What's That as a fun way to teach and review classroom expectations! I created this template to share the fun with you! I hope your students love it as much as mine do!

If you have any questions, please feel free to send me an email at middleschoolinthemitten@gmail.com, and I will try my best to help!

WHAT'S THAT? ACTIVITY TEMPLATE

how I use it in my classroom!

This is my favorite activity for teaching and reviewing expectations and important places in the room! In order to set it up, I take pictures of important places and objects around the room and zoomed in closely on each one. I project the zoomed in pictures and my students were challenged to guess what it was in the classroom. After they guess, I show the correct answer and we discuss the procedure or rule for that object or place. This activity puts a fun twist on talking about expectations and procedures, and I love to use it to review expectations after breaks from school!
